ABOUT

Electric Circus

An instrumental six-piece from Torino, playing grooves rooted in 1970s jazz-funk and Afrobeat.

Two saxophones, keys, guitar, bass and drums. The band's sound is shaped by library music, psychedelia and African music: hypnotic horn lines, deep grooves and a cinematic streak.

Since their debut album Canicola (2018) Electric Circus have played in the U.S., scored a documentary series shot between Mali and Senegal and recorded with the Malian duo Sahel Roots. Their second album, Rites, is out on Killer Groove Records. They play clubs and festivals across Italy, and their music has aired on radio in the USA, UK, Australia, France and Italy.

LIVE

Electric Circus have been playing clubs and festivals since their debut. On stage, they channel all their influences into a groove-driven set: a rich, immersive journey that moves between instinctive improvisation and tightly built arrangements, from slow-burning, hypnotic grooves to full-on Afrobeat, with the horns turning a simple motif into a collective statement.

NEW ALBUM

Rites

OUT 27.11.2026 · LP · CD DIGIPAK · DIGITAL

Born out of late-night jam sessions, Rites plays like a sequence of scenes from an imaginary film: nocturnal visions and symbolic rituals, moving between instinctive improvisation and tightly built arrangements. Library music, dub, Ethiopian scales and desert psych meet '70s jazz-funk and Afrobeat.

Produced by the band, co-produced and mixed by Marco Sirio Pivetti. Recorded at Metrò Rec (Riva del Garda) and Sberdia Studio (Torino), mastered by Riccardo Ricci at Velvet Room (Brighton). Tom Newton guests on harmonica on "Azazel".
